Deployment > Web Site Maintenance

Keeping a web site current is an important part of having a successful online presence. If you were to have a brochure printed for your business, every time you wanted to make a change you would need to have hundreds or thousands of them printed. Not so on the Internet. You have only one web site which is available to millions of people, so updates and changes can happen as often as you wish, and are relatively inexpensive.

Depending on the type and frequency of the maintenance required, we may be able to automate the update process, greatly reducing the amount of work involved and the cost. And of course, if your site needs to be updated by hand or needs a new look we can offer comprehensive page design and professional graphic design capabilities.

BuzzBoltMEDIA can provide you with continuous, dependable customer service for a set monthly fee. We know that if you have to pay a fee every time you make a change, you won't be making a lot of changes. That's why we charge a flat monthly rate for site maintenance. We want you to make changes to your site regularly to keep the information current. You'll know up front how much your maintenance fees will be.

Before updates are released to the live service, BuzzBoltMEDIA will perform a series of quality assurance tests to ensure each and every page in your site is functioning correctly. Your changes are submitted to us electronically and processed by our staff on a set schedule each month.

New pages, graphics and photo reformatting, changes to scripting and other new development would be quoted as a new project and would not be included under any of BuzzBoltMEDIA's maintenance plans. New pages will be added to your maintenance plan at the same rate per page during the month following the page's launch to your site. Maintenance packages include all HTML pages within the site.
