Great web sites should support and enhance your existing marketing strategies and programs. They should reinforce your organization's traditional branding and image as well.

The World Wide Web has provided savvy small and medium-sized businesses with new opportunities and tools that enable them to compete effectively with major corporations. A professional, well designed, constantly updating web site can substantially add to your image and bottom line with minimal upfront costs and a positive return on investment.

Consider the ways in which your business or organization might profit from developing a professional web site:

- Expands Your Hours of Operation
- Reduces Information Delivery and Staff Costs
- Keeps Information Up-to-Date and Always Within Reach
- Expands Your Customer Base with Unlimited Advertising
- Sells Products and Services

Our process is simple, yet effective. BuzzBoltMEDIA reviews your existing marketing materials and develops an interface designed to work with your current branding. We also develop a site map that clearly defines the scope of your project. Once you approve the initial work, buildout occurs and the site is launched live.
